

Faculty Position: Sociology of Education, CU Boulder

For further information, please contact Margaret.Eisenhart@Colorado.edu

The School of Education at the University of Colorado Boulder announces a tenure track faculty position for the 2013-2014 academic year for a Sociologist of Education.

The School intends to hire at the Assistant and Associate Professor levels, with consideration given to hiring at the Professor level when appropriate. Scholars of color are strongly encouraged to apply. Responsibilities: Candidates for the positions must be willing to contribute to teaching and program development in the teacher education and graduate programs, conduct research, publish in significant refereed journals, and seek outside funding. Candidates must be committed to working with culturally and linguistically diverse populations.

Sociologist of Education: Candidates for this position must have a doctorate in sociology, sociology of education, or similar degree emphasizing sociology. They should bring a strong foundation in sociological theories relevant to the critical examination of educational institutions, policies, and practices, with a particular emphasis on educational inequalities associated with social class, race, ethnicity, gender, or sexuality. Preference will be given to candidates who focus on k-12 education or school-to-college pipeline issues in the United States. This faculty member will be expected to develop and teach graduate courses in the sociology of education, supervise graduate students, and teach a "School and Society" course in the School's teacher education program. Candidates must demonstrate a mature or developing program of research, preferably with external funding. The successful candidate will work within the School's Educational Foundations, Policy and Practice Program, whose current faculty members represent the fields of anthropology, curriculum theory, history, law and philosophy; several emphasize policy. She/he also will be encouraged to collaborate with other faculty in the School of Education and across campus.

Sociologist of Education Job Posting #814866

Quick Link: www.jobsatcu.com/applicants/Central?quickFind=66132

Contact: Dr. Margaret Eisenhart E-Mail: Margaret.Eisenhart@Colorado.EDU

Application Materials: Completed applications must include a letter of application specifying the desired position, a curriculum vita, and contact information for three letters of recommendation. Please submit application materials electronically at <http://www.jobsatcu.com/> (reference job posting number and quick link listed above).

Salary: Commensurate with experience and scholarly record.

Closing Date: The review of applications will begin on November 1, 2012 and will continue until each position is filled.

The CU-Boulder School of Education is located at the flagship campus of the University of Colorado, situated at the base of the Rocky Mountains 25 miles northwest of Denver. The School has a tradition of excellence and offers a welcoming and collaborative environment for scholars who desire to pursue the highest quality research and teaching. As a community, we embrace the principles of social justice, democracy, and diversity as the historic moral imperatives of U.S. public schooling. The School ranks among the nation's most distinguished in terms of the quality and importance of the scholarly contributions made by its faculty and students. Graduate degrees (MA & PhD) are offered in five areas of emphasis - Educational Foundations, Policy, and Practice; Educational Equity and Cultural Diversity; Curriculum and Instruction; Educational Psychology and Learning Sciences; and Research and Evaluation Methodology. Our exemplary, research-based teacher education programs (undergraduate and Masters) are an integral part of the life of the School. Find more program information at <http://www.colorado.edu/education/>.